FAILED on floor. Modifies rights of a defendant. Defines "manifestly unjust" -- means a finding that the application of the facts to the law is shocking to the conscience or results in an injustice that is direct and obvious to a reasonable person with due consideration of the totality of circumstances. Addresses jury instructions where a defendant can request a jury instruction that allows the jury to find a defendant not guilty on specific charge when a guilty verdict would be manifestly unjust. [FN: If legislation leads to new jury trials, trial costs could be approximately $8,000 per trial. Enactment of this bill could cost around $160,000 from the Gen Fund for the Office of the Attorney General and $64,000 from the Gen Fund for the Administrative Office of the Courts beginning in FY18 for an expected 25 new trials per year.]

Prohibits the state from seeking the death penalty for aggravated murder committed after May 7, 2018. [FN: For cases that would otherwise be initially processed as death penalty cases but would now presumably be processed as cases carrying a life without parole penalty, enactment of this bill could save the Courts about $38,000 ongoing from the Gen Fund, beginning in FY19 from reduced investigative costs. This bill could also have the following known secondary Gen Fund impacts: 1. Attorney General - This could save the Attorney General about $44,500 each year in appeals costs for those offenders that would otherwise be awaiting a final determination on their sentence for each applicable case; 2. Corrections - Beginning in FY39, this could cost the Department of Corrections on average about $29,700 each year in incarceration costs. This may also save the Department about $165,000 one-time in preparation and execution costs for each applicable case; 3. Department of Administrative Services - This may save $10,800 in legal defense each year from the Post Conviction Indigent Defense Fund in applicable cases; 4. Board of Pardon and Parole - This may save the Board $22,400 one-time in hearing and research costs for each applicable case; 5. Department of Public Safety - This may save the Department of Public Safety $7,500 one-time for evidence review costs for each applicable case. A penalty other than the death penalty would presumably be sought in about 4 cases every year, this could save counties up to $400,000/case or more for a total of up to $1,600,000 annually or more in additional prosecution and defense costs typically required in such cases. Local jails could save about $31,200 in pre-trial incarceration costs. Also, for offenders that would otherwise be sentenced to death, this bill could save counties about $36,300/year in appeals costs for every offender awaiting a final determination on their sentence, assuming these offenders will now be sentenced to life without parole.]

GOV SIGNED Defines "knowledge" and "with knowledge" with respect to involvement in an accident (means, with respect to an individual's own conduct or to circumstances surrounding an individual's conduct, that the individual is aware of the nature of the conduct or the existing circumstances). New class B misdemeanor. [FN: To the extent that individuals are fined for knowingly causing property damage in a hit and run accident, the criminal surcharge account could see additional revenue equal to 35 percent of the revenue difference between related class B and class C misdemeanors.
